WHAT TOWN CAN BEAT IT? Newcastle Has a Record For the Longevity of Its Residents'

What town in the state can beat Newcastle for longevity of its residents? This town has only a population of 500 persons, but included in this number are four aged 80; one aged 81; one aged 82; one aged 83; one aged 84; one aged 85; one aged 87; two aged 88; one aged 92 and one aged 95. On Friday two of its oldest residents, Capt. John Hall and John V. White, jointly observed their eighty-eighth birthday. Mr. White is the holder of the gold headed cane presented by a Boston newspaper, but is only about an hour older than Captain Hall.

Both of these citizens are held in the highest esteem by the townspeople, who wish them many more years of good health and prosperity.

NOTICE.
On and after Monday, January 19, 1914, the bridge at York Harbor, Me., will be closed for a month or more while a new draw is being put on by the Boston & Maine railroad. It will be closed about an hour older than Captain Hall.

HEARING ON GUARDIANSHIP

Petition of Miss Sarah J. Farmer for Appointment of New Guardian Occupies the Attention of Judge Hoyt

A special session of probate court was held in this city this morning by Judge Louis G. Hoyt to hear the following petition:

"To the Judge of Probate for said County:

"Respectfully represents Sarah J. Farmer, of Portsmouth, in said County, that Edwin Ginn of Boston in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, was appointed guardian over her under a voluntary petition signed by her, by this honorable court on the 23d day of April, 1912, and immediately thereafter qualified as such guardian and has since said date acted in that capacity; that said Ginn has recently, to wit: on the twentieth day of December, 1913, been taken ill with an apoplectic shock and will never be able to attend to any business in the future, and particularly to the matter of said guardianship; that prior to said attack on the first day of December, 1913, said Ginn verbally notified Dr. Edward S. Cowles of said Portsmouth, the personal physician of your petitioner, in whose care the said Ginn had entrusted your petitioner, that he desired said Dr. Cowles to take steps to relieve him, the said Ginn, of said responsibility as guardian; and that by reason of the said Ginn's health at that time he was unable to longer attend to the matters of said guardianship and that said Ginn's notice to said Cowles is a resignation of his office as guardian, so far as he is or will ever be able to make it, and that your petitioner is now desirous of another guardian in place of said Ginn, or a co-guardian with said Ginn, if the same be deemed legal, necessary or advisable, and she now renounces the allegation in her original petition that by reason of infirmities of age she deems herself unfit for the management of her affairs with prudence and understanding."

The petition is signed by Sarah J. Farmer and Edward S. Cowles.

The petitioners were represented by Col. John H. Bartlett and John L. Mitchell. Judge A. B. Cole of Elliot and Attorney Ernest L. Gupill of this city were present in the interest of Mr. G. E. Hammond, guardian for Miss Farmer in Maine. Hon. Fred J. Allen of Sanford appeared for Mr. Ginn.

Several ladies from Elliot, friends of Miss Farmer, were present and at one time in course of Judge Cole's remarks expressed their approval by loud clapping.

At the outset of the hearing Judge Hoyt said that he had visited Miss Farmer at the Cowles sanitarium and she had expressed a desire to remain there as she was contented; that she feared that if she returned to Elliot she would want to take an active part in the affairs at Green Acre and her health was not strong enough to admit such action.

Counsel for Mr. Hammond said that there were numerous bills that had been contracted by other parties amounting to $2700, that had been presented to Mr. Hammond for payment.

Col. Bartlett, in reply, said that Mr. Ginn had given Dr. Cowles a written guarantee that he would pay her expenses while at the sanitarium and that he was living up to that agreement. In supplement to their petition he stated that Mrs. Sanford would sign a similar agreement.

Mr. Allen of Sanford said that early in July he received a letter asking him to act as personal counsel for Mr. Ginn. He at once arranged for an interview with Miss Farmer, but some time elapsed before he was able to see her. After seeing Miss Farmer a plan was formulated whereby both guardians were to exercise control over Miss Farmer and she was to return to her home in Elliot. In November he again went to see Miss Farmer and read the agreement to be signed between her and the guardians. Both he and Mr. Hammond retired while she read the agreement, which with a few changes she signed in triplicate.

When Mr. Ginn sustained his stroke of paralysis Mr. Anderson notified him that any obligation as far as Mr. Ginn's estate was concerned terminated. We had virtually reached an agreement whereby Miss Farmer was to be returned to her home and was never to be again committed to an insane asylum, except by consent of her two guardians. She owns property esti-ated at from $8,000 to $15,000.

Judge Hoyt said Miss Farmer told him that she thoroughly understood when she signed the agreement, but afterwards changed her mind. She expressed utmost confidence in her guardian, Mr. Hammond.

Attorney Cole said that when Miss Farmer was first stricken she had no ready money and certain friends agreed to raise an annuity of $1800 each year for her support. Of this sum Mr. Ginn agreed to contribute $600 yearly. Mr. Ginn had lived up to his agreement but others had not. That he had written Mr. Hammond, threatening suit unless he reimbursed him for amounts that he had paid, outside of the $600 yearly.

Col. Bartlett stated that Miss Farmer and Mr. Ginn were advised not to sign the agreement drawn by Mr. Allen.

Attorney Cole said that Miss Farmer had blood relatives in Elliot who were anxious to have her there, not among strangers.

Judge Hoyt asked what these relatives have ever done for Miss Farmer, and Mr. Cole promptly replied that they had given all they had in the world; she had spent their money as well as her own.

Mr. Gupill said that Miss Farmer's relatives objected to her being an object of charity and also objected to her having as a guardian Mrs. Sanford, who was apparently controlled by Dr. Cowles.

Mr. Hammond, in reply to the court, said that Miss Farmer's relatives and friends wanted her home where they could have access to her. For the past two years she had lived among strangers and that when her blood relations had gone to see her they had been denied that permission. He stated that before he would be satisfied that Miss Farmer did not desire to return to her old home, he should want her separated from her present surroundings and influences for at least a month.

At 12 o'clock the hearing was adjourned until 2 o'clock this afternoon and during the recess Judge Hoyt and Mr. Hammond were to visit Miss Farmer to further ascertain her wishes in the matter.

JEFFERSON CLUB.

Committee Claims It Has Lots of Inside Political Information.

The committee from the Jefferson Club claim they have a lot of inside information concerning the navy yard which is the result of communication with the Secretary of the Navy, Henry P. Hobbs, and Congressman Eugene E. Reed.

The committee also makes a claim that it has other political dope affecting local affairs, but they appear to be keeping it under their hats. They say, however, that Secretary Daniels and the senator and congressman gave promise of plenty of work at the naval station later.

You are invited to attend the lecture by Pat Quinlan Monday evening, Jan. 19, K. of P. hall, Freeman's Block. Admission free.

New York Attorney-General Says He Lacks Authority in Thaw Case.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 16.—An announcement to the legislature next week, Attorney General Carmody will declare that United States District Judge Aldrich of New Hampshire, is without authority to entertain the sanity proceedings recently instituted by attorneys for Harry K. Thaw. No federal authority, he will maintain, has a right to pass on the mental condition of Thaw.

"If there be warrant in law for these proceedings," Mr. Carmody will say, "I shall have them that the attention of the legislative department of the legislature should be called to it with a view of establishing the proper remedy."

Mr. Carmody will insist that Thaw should be turned over to the New York authorities because every constitutional provision in relation to extra dition has been complied with New York. The statement will close with the assurance that there is no intention on the part of the attorney-general to criticize the federal court of New Hampshire.

KILLED BY ACCIDENT

Frank Winchester Meets His Death by Being Thrown From Horse.

Frank Winchester, son of the late E. H. Winchester, was thrown from his horse in San Francisco on Thursday and killed. He was the brother of Mrs. Wallace Jackell of this city, and his mother, Mrs. E. H. Winchester, resides on the Lafayette road.

Young Winchester was one of the business men of the Pacific Coast, and since his boyhood which was passed here, he has been located in San Francisco.

WATER RECORD HIGH.

Away Ahead of the Same Period a Year Ago.

The record in the water department for the past week shows that eleven hundred thousand gallons more were consumed and wasted in this city during the past week than during the corresponding period in 1913. The cause for this is ascribed to the several breaks and leaks in the system during the cold spell.

MILKMEN SEEK PUBLIC HELP.

Boston, Jan. 17.—A campaign to acquaint consumers with the cost of producing milk of good quality was decided upon yesterday by the New England Milk Producers' association. The purpose of the movement is to gain the co-operation of the public which, in the opinion of the association, has shown a spirit of hostility toward efforts of milkmen to obtain a higher price for their product.

This action, which followed a recommendation of Secretary Richard Patten of Leonia, N. H., was the principal result of the annual meeting. President Henry E. Bullard of Holliston was re-elected. Other officers chosen were: Vice presidents, J. K. Mills of Northboro and Harry Dean of Grafton, N. H.; treasurer, H. L. Webster of Canaan, N. H., and Secretary Patten.

WILL ANALYZE NAVY YARD BID

Boston Yard Must Change Figures If it Gets Supply Ship to Build

Secretary Daniels has referred the estimates of the Boston yard for constructing a supply ship to Naval Constructor William J. Baxter. He told the Massachusetts delegation in congress today that is Constructor Baxter, who is stationed at Boston found the supply ship could be built for $1,350,000, which is the bid of the New York Navy Shipbuilding Company and also the lowest bid by any private shipyard, he would award the contract to Boston.

This announcement was made after Senators Lodge and Weeks and all the New York State members of the House, except Peters, Murray, Treadwell, and Gillett, had gathered in his office. He said the naval construction board were doubtful whether the ship could be built for the figure quoted by the Boston yard, but he wished Mr. Baxter to go over the estimates. These were made originally by a younger constructor. He said he had given the Boston figures to the New York yard to study, just as he had given a bid by the New York yard to the Boston yard to study.

The secretary said he was extremely willing, if the contract was awarded to Boston, that the appropriation of $1,450,000 for machine tools should be transferred and used to equip the Boston yard for better shipbuilding.

ANOTHER MAN IS ROBBED

Claims $85 was Taken from Him at the Home of a Relative

Philip Blyshucka complained to the police today of having been robbed on Friday at the home of his brother-in-law, at Russell street, where he claims $85 was taken from him.

He had been working in a lumber camp in the Adirondacks and after being paid he came to Portsmouth, meeting here on the Bangor & Boston express at 6 o'clock Friday morning. He went to his relative's home where there was a general good time during the forenoon and he paid for more or less liquor.

In the afternoon he went to bed and awoke at 5 o'clock. The money was taken while he slept and the empty pocketbook put back in his clothing. The people at the house found $85 later, in the bed, but denied all knowledge of the stealing.

Blyshucka today swore out a warrant for the arrest of his brother-in-law and he will have to face the court. This is the third man who has lost his money in the same way in the North End district within a short time.

Who Says Hunting Boat Can be Used Only on Water

HUNTER WITH ICE BREAK BOX

TOOK "GINGER" OUT OF HORSE

Sailor, Being Indifferent Rider, Sought Refuge in Element he was Accustomed To.

A seaman on horseback is like the proverbial fish out of water. John Surman, a sailor, who was afterward the commander of the British ship Macedonia when she surrendered to the United States during the War of 1812, was one of a group of English naval officers who in 1802 visited Cutro. There they paid their respects to the "Grand Bashaw" of Egypt.

"Having gone through the diplomatic conference, we prepared to depart. When we got to the door, we found three elegantly caparisoned horses, one for Sir Howe Popham, one for me, and one for Captain Collier. After Sir Howe was mounted, I got on my Arab steed, a dark iron gray, which seemed as docile as could be imagined. As soon as Captain Collier was on his Arab, and outside the palace gate, a salute of 21 guns began, and to my utter dismay (since I was not an expert horseman), my Arab began to jump sideways and right on end, and in various ways, at the discharge of every gun. As I was not used to this kind of motion, I considered what was to be done, for surely I could not long keep my seat. I suddenly struck me that I had better have recourse to a large piece of water close to the palace, for I felt that I should have a better chance on my accustomed element than on the hard stones by which the road was bounded. I directly clapped the shovels (the Arab stepped into) into my Arab and went slap into the water, and thus kept the horse above the girls until the salute was finished, when I rode out perfectly quiet. This freak caused very great amusement to a large assembly of natives and others who witnessed it."—Youth's Companion.

BODY'S RESISTANCE TO HEAT

Extreme Temperature Can Be Endured If the Application Is Dry—What Experiments Prove.

The human body can stand far greater heat if it be dry than if it be wet. Strangely enough, it can stand far better liquids inside than out. For example, the average tea drinker sips tea at a temperature of about 140 degrees—sometimes as high as 145 degrees. But he cannot hold his hand in water that is 120 degrees or his feet in water higher than 112 degrees. Few persons can stand a bath in water at 105 degrees.

In parts of Central America men live in an average temperature of 115 degrees in the shade and 140 degrees in the sun, while 151 degrees has been registered. In the Persian gulf the thermometers on ships vary between 122 degrees and 140. A recent explorer in the Himalayas reports that he found at 9 a. m. in December and at more than 10,000 feet altitude a temperature of 131 degrees.

Drs. Bloyden and Chantreux, desiring to ascertain how high a temperature the human body could stand, shut themselves up in an oven of which the heat was gradually raised, and they were able to bear up to 212 degrees, the boiling point of water.

BENEFIT IN POWDERING HAIR

Adds Greatly to Appearance of Youthfulness, According to Woman Who Has Tried It.

A society woman whose dark, fluffy hair was beginning to get gray over her forehead and about her ears was depressed by the aging look this gave her.

"It's becoming to some women, but not to me, though I think my hair when it gets more gray will be very becoming. My hair has grown very dark, as hair always does before graying, and that is very trying to my face, especially when I wear evening dress. It gives me a dry, shabby look. I don't know how else to describe it.

"Now I mourn over this no longer, for I have adopted that most becoming little Paris trick in vogue there among even very young women who haven't a gray hair in their heads, of powdering the hair lightly about the face in the evening.

"It took a little courage for me to do this at first, as it is still an unusual thing to do over here, but the result was so delightful that I soon lost all timidity about doing it.

"It has taken years away from my appearance, softening as it does the harsh, unnatural darkness of the hair about my face and offsetting the ugly little streaks of gray that were so unbecoming.

"Besides," she added with a little laugh, "there's a little dash in doing it that makes greatly for youthfulness."

FASHIONS AND FADS.

Plush and velvet are much used for children's hats.

Marigold yellow is one of the new colors in Paris.

Wide white belts are seen made of kid or suede leather.

Wash frocks are best for the little girls' first days of school.

Wool brocades are being used, even for girls' suits.

Persian effects will be seen galore on the new autumn gowns.

New black braids have the basket weave and suggest astrakhan.

A new braid is the combination of dull braids and bright ones.

Pouch bags of silk or leather have panther handles to match.

Some of the new separate skirts are made of jacquard wool, and prettily draped.

Black, relieved by a touch of violet, green or white, will be much worn this season.

Wide moire ribbon is being used for millinery trimmings and sashes.

MR. FLURRY IN A HURRY

By EMILY F. SMITH.

In this life there is always something we have time for. However important the issue of our present occupation, there are possibilities which may light upon us and engross us until they take wings and fly away.

Mr. N. A. Flurry has never been still long enough for any possibility to light on him. He is one of those distressingly busy men that remind you of a Waterbury watch; they wind and wind and when they get wound, they run and run and next they do it all over again.

Mr. Flurry has not accomplished very much, because he has always been in such a hurry that he hadn't time.

One morning at the first ring of the alarm clock, set for six, Mr. Flurry fell out of bed, plunged into his clothes, snatched his breakfast, and having a half hour to kill, he awakened the baby and tried to dress it. He let it fall, and as the infant had been badly spoiled by his mother, it began to cry, so he gave it to Mrs. Flurry, and worried the dog until he saw a car coming. As usual, it was not the right car. He would have torn to the office, anyway, had not Mrs. Flurry happened to think of something at the last minute, as she always did. Involving him into a kiss, she held onto his collar and said:

"Dear, I know how awfully in a hurry you are, and I just have to ask you—"

"Drop it! Stop it!" snapped Mr. Flurry, grabbing his hat. "I'm not going past the grocery at all. I don't expect to make a speech with the butcher, baker or candlestick maker this side of Christmas. Jerusalem! Do you take me for a patent, self-adjusting automobile messenger service? Am I your idea of a working model of perpetual motion? B-r-r!" and he lunged toward the door.

"But, love," and Mrs. Flurry clung to the lapel of his coat, not at all shivering in the heat of his glare, "it is only a small matter; it will take just a minute. The gas jet in the hall wasn't quite turned off last night and gas is escaping."

"Turn it off yourself," snarled Mr. Flurry. "Do you take me for a janitor or a charwoman? Do I look like a chambermaid or a policeman? I am a business man, madam, working with the force of a hydrostatic press to supply you with food and flattery, and here you hang on like a wood tick."

He flung her off and dashed out, only to fall over a rustic chair. Mr. Flurry swung the chair on high, banged it against the side of the house, and pitched it over the back fence. During that psychological moment, Mr. Flurry felt something crawling across the back of his hand.

It was nothing but a wasp, a little creature that God created for reasons of his own.

Mr. Flurry had seen hundreds of wasps before, and as a class he cared nothing for them. He is not afraid of them. Indeed, he has been heard to say that he would not hesitate to walk into a swarm of them if he wanted to. The wasp crawled slowly up to his elbow, browsed around and crawled back. It did not walk very heavy, still Mr. Flurry could hear and feel its steps clear back to his teething time.

Mrs. Flurry came to the kitchen door. She saw him kneeling, with one hand in the grass and the other rigid in the air, an expression of prayerful contemplation on his chastened countenance, and she felt more kindly toward him and happier than she had been since the day before she was married. She went to him and kissed him.

"My ownest," she murmured, "I beg you not to be sorry about the naughty things you have said to me. I know you didn't mean them. You are my own dear. Why don't you get up? Are you going to kneel there and not speak and just get purple in the face until I forgive you? You needn't. I have already forgiven you, and I'm glad it all happened, because we understand each other better now. What is the matter with your arm? Is it paralyzed? Let me see. What is that wasp doing up your sleeve? Why don't you shake it out?"

"Shaking before taking is the natural order," he answered, in a low tone. "The wasp is already there; it has arrived; and I want it to feel free to leave without mutual unpleasantness."

While he was making himself out a modern Siddhartha, in a kind of monition that wouldn't offend the wasp, Mrs. Flurry got it by the head and dropped it in the rain barrel.

Which Is Truly Scientific.

"I thought you said Tompkins was an omnivorous reader."

"So I did."

"Behave! Why, he hasn't even read David Copperfield."

"I forgot to tell you that he confines his reading to a single subject."

$10,000,000 B. & M. NOTES TO BE EXTENDED

Fall Due Feb. 3, But Will Be Put Forward Four Months.

Boston, Jan. 16.—It was learned today that plans were being consummated by Boston and New York bankers to extend the $10,000,000 notes of the Boston & Maine company, due next month.

The notes which were due February 3 will be extended four months. At that time the company will have to meet $17,000,000 of notes, it is hoped by the finance committee of the road that the condition of the company will have improved sufficiently during the time to enable the road to adopt some plan whereby the issue may be adjusted on some long term basis. No official statement on the subject could be obtained today from any of the bankers involved in the transaction.

An agreement by a majority of the holders of $10,000,000 of the notes of the Boston & Maine railroad, due on February 3 for an extension for four months was announced here today. Directors of the company now the minority holders will make the same concessions. In any event they say that the action of the majority has saved the company from possible bankruptcy or a receivership, for the time being at least.

With $17,000,000 in notes coming due on June 2, the company will have to take care of the entire $27,000,000 on that date but officials hope that the balance sheet will then show improvements sufficient to encourage bankers to enter some sort of a general refunding plan.

Were Legal Investment

At the time of the issue of $10,000,000 of notes in February 1913 they were a legal investment in Massachusetts, as the company was paying dividends, but when notes to the amount of $17,000,000 were issued four months later dividends had ceased.

The stock dropped steadily until it reached 25, the lowest in its history, and talk of a receivership was the financial circles. Many plans were offered for saving the road from such drastic action, all with a view of taking care in some way the notes falling due next month, which was recognized as of vital importance.

One of the plans brought forward was the exchange of a certain amount of Boston & Maine stock in the treasury for an issue of 5 per cent bonds of the Maine Central. This was recently decided not to be feasible. Several other plans are involved in the use of the Maine Central stock and were also brought forward only to be rejected. Within the last few days it was determined to ask the holders of the February notes to extend them on the ground that by such action the notes would still continue to be legal. A sufficient amount to make up a good majority assented to the plan today.

By certain economies in operation and in advance in rates, the railroad managers express hope of an increase in the net revenue that will insure the success of a general refunding plan.

HOW TO MATE POULTRY FOR BREEDING

Vigor and Shape the Two Requisite Qualities.
D. J. Lambert,Poultry Instructor, R. I. State College.
Careful selection of breeding stock, eliminating all those showing traces of weakness, will insure poultry raisers against three-fourths of the mortality of chickenhood.

Abounding vitality should be one of the requisites in every domestic fowl used for breeding purposes. No matter what class, breed, variety, size or cost, or how excellent the prize record or fine in plumage, if the bird is lacking in stamina it should never be used for reproduction. These rules apply to all kinds and both sexes.

The most vigorous variety of common fowls are invariably loud, crows, proud strutters and ready fighters and a vigorous male can be detected by the way he carries himself and by the way he stands upon his feet and throws out his chest when he crows. Other unmistakable signs of vigor are a straight, upright bright red comb, stout back, broad back and smooth shanks set well apart.

Males and pullets of strong vitality type are generally prolific layers, are off the nest at dawn and will keep at work until darkness compels them to stop. They are always wide awake, industrious, busybodies, and in shape these hens are broad across the hips, the tail is carried fairly well up and their size is near the average for the breed.

Hens Preferred to Pullets

For breeding purposes hens are generally preferred to pullets because they are fully matured and possess stored up vitality after their annual molt. Furthermore, their second laying year they will lay larger eggs, which produce stronger chickens.

A well-matured year old cockerel is often a surer stock getter than an adult cock because the former is generally more active and sprightly. The number of hens to one male depends upon how many eggs are desired for incubation and whether the flock is confined in a yard or has unlimited range. It is better to breed only from the very best than to include inferior specimens to make up a larger pen. Four to eight hens, with one cockerel are usually better than a larger number, especially when space is limited, and a vigorous male will take care of forty or fifty hens on free farm range so long as both sexes are strong and hardy. It is possible to get good results in breeding from very closely related stock, which is frequently done by breeders of show ring birds.

THE FAMILY COW

Her Returns in Profit and Pleasure
Laura Rose Stephens,
Author of "Farm Dairying."

A question often asked is, "Does it pay to keep a cow for family use?" If there is a fair sized family, if an extra help is needed to look after the cow and if there is a convenient place to house and pasture her then we are safe in saying it does pay to keep a good cow.

A Jersey, Guernsey or Ayrshire might be chosen. The Jersey and Guernsey give rich milk, which readily creeps owing to the fat globules in their milk. The Ayrshire gives a well sustained flow of good average milk, especially fitted for table use, as it contains the smallest fat globules and does not cream so readily.

Test the Cow for Tuberculosis.
If a family is to consume the milk of one cow it is important that she be vigorous and sound and be submitted to the tuberculin test once a year, for the danger of drinking milk continuously from a diseased cow is apparent. That is the reason why herd's milk is to be preferred to the individual cow's unless the health of the cow is assured.

Regular hours for milking and feeding are necessary, and a cow must be liberally fed. Often the owner of one cow is an amateur and has no idea of the immense capacity of a cow's stomach, for a good sized animal's stomach holds thirty-six gallons. So give her all she will eat in two hours twice daily and provide some form of succulent food for winter in order to maintain the milk flow. Roots, beets, carrots and mangolds make a splendid substitute for silage; so also does steeped hay. Put the hay through a cutter, then put into a water tight box and pour over it hot water, cover tightly and leave till next day. On top of this moist hay feed meal, from four to eight pounds per day, according to the milk flow. Crushed oats, three pounds bran, four pounds, and oatmeal, one pound, make a good mixture also. Feed some sweet clover hay at noon.

Give the cow twice daily all the water she will drink, for there is a vital connection between the milk flow and the water supply, milk being 87 per cent water.

One cow's feed for a year amounts to from $15 to $30 varying with feed prices and cow's appetite. The lactation period should be ten months, allowing the cow to be dry two months to recuperate herself and properly nourish her unborn calf.

During this resting period reduce the meal ration to one and one-half pounds bran and one-half pound of cake. The cow must be in good condition at freshening time.

A PREMIUM ON MUSHROOMS

How and Where to Grow Them.
E. Kneeland,
Agriculturist.

The great demand for mushrooms is not only constant, but far below the supply, and as they sell for from 20 to 60 cents per pound their cultivation is worth considering.

Any one who has a bit of space in the cellar where the temperature can be kept at 57 degrees F. can easily raise mushrooms. Make a first bed on the ground in a semi-dark corner, using great care in the selection of material to be used for the bed. Use horse manure, composed largely of short manure, with a small proportion of long, strawy litter, adding loam or rich soil at the rate of one bushel of soil to four or five bushels of manure. This mixture should be prepared by sieving, turning, shaking and casked every three or four days until it is in condition for preparing the bed. These operations permit of the escape of noxious gases and prevent souring. Keep moist, but not too wet, and in about two weeks the material will be ready for use. The bed should be twelve to fourteen inches thick (two to three feet wide, and long as desired) after being thoroughly pounded down so as to become firm, level and compact, and then cover with long straw. If the material is in proper shape the mercury in the thermometer (which comes expressly for this work) will rise to 100 degrees or more, then slowly fall.

How to Plant the Spawn
When 99 degrees is reached time for planting the spawn has come. If longish mushroom spawn is used break it into pieces two inches square and plant nine inches apart each way and two inches deep. Be sure to firm the manure over the spawn, and after the spawn has been planted a week or ten days it should begin "muzzing," then spread a coat of rich, loamy soil an inch thick over the bed, the surface being made smooth and firm; cover it with litter and keep the temperature at 57 degrees F. The bed should be kept covered until exhausted. Many failures are caused by overwatering. While mushrooms thrive best in a soil which will not crack, but keep moist enough to press together nicely, till it should not be wet. On the other hand, if allowed to become too dry the bed becomes exhausted before the crop is harvested. Always use lukewarm water. The mushrooms should appear in six or eight weeks unless there is some defect in material, temperature of moisture, in which case they may remain barren for two or three months and then turn out excellent crops.

A LITTLE STORY OF SUCCESS

The Importance of Byproducts
P. K. Edwards.

If a premium were offered for the most rapid gains from the most simple methods I should be inclined to give it to a near-city-farmer, who, through sheer foresightfulness and well spent energy, built up a path to success for himself which many less sharp-witted would do well to follow. Every one in the neighborhood was kept guessing why he always seemed to have more than his share in the way of a bank account, for he kept no fancy breeds of cattle or poultry, nor did he seem to work overtime but his success was unmistakable, and one day he smilingly confided to the writer that it could be summed up in one word, "Byproducts."

Pot Cheese and Buttermilk.
Instead of using all his skim milk for the piggery he made put cheese out of it, did it up in fancy boxes and got a good price for all he could sell. This made a very profitable outlet for large quantities of the byproduct, 418 Jersey herd, though not a fancy one, was carefully looked after, regularly and plentifully fed, and from this he made, instead of the usual salted butter, fancy fresh or "French" butter, as it is called, for which he got 60 cents a pound from the nearby summer colony. The byproduct from this--buttermilk--he also sold retail, but it recommended by physicians for their patients and by selling it in glass bottles got 10 cents a quart for it. This, it may be noted, is more than some less far-sighted farmers sell for their fresh milk. In his poultry houses he was careful to mix land plaster with the droppings, which dries the manure and, after being shoveled over, was put in barrels and left till needed, and he argued that he collected about $20 annually from the droppings of each hundred birds. His poultry were always dry plucked that he might get the best price for the feathers, which he sold regularly, and understanding, as he told the writer, how many of his neighbors could expect so valuable a money maker.

There is also a large hotel near the young farmer's place, and he made a point of taking immense bunches of wild flowers, which were abundant on some unincultivated land he owned, to the hotel manager three times a week who gradually came to count on him for his hall decorations. All of these small items yielded good returns and became a substantial source of income, but are, strangely enough, usually overlooked by the "easy going" who count it "too much trouble" and "not worth while."

A FEW RECEIPTS FOR THE TANGO

New York, Jan. 16.--Hear ye! All who wish to tango, cuttawak, one-step, mackie and do all the rest of its underp long-necked necks that have been made so stiff by its wholesale dissemination from purports and other places, heed well these rules, sent forth by one of the most unexceptional dancing clubs in New York City, Learn them by heart and practice them and you can dance any figure you like and yet do a perfect gentleman and ladies.

The club which sends out these rules is the Castle House, at No. 25 East 40th street. Miss Elizabeth Marbury, Miss Elsie De Wolfe and Mrs. John Corbin are generally the hostesses at its affairs. Miss Anna Morgan is a constant guest. It is understood that Miss Morgan, recommends the rules for the dances at the new club-house. Here are the rules: Rule No. 1--Do not wiggle the shoulders. A calm and serene expression of the shoulders is most important. Rule No. 2--Do not shake the hips. You may shake your partner or any thing else you feel like shaking, but hips must remain motionless. Rule No. 3--Do not twist the body. Think how the floor would look if every dancer did himself. Instead into a howl and refrain. Rule No. 4--Do not flound. No old bows. Flounders on skirts and floors are not the things nowadays. Rule No. 5--Do not pump the arms. Pump your partner if you must pump something. Pumps are all right on the feet, but not on the arms. Rule No. 6--Do not hop. The glide is the thing. Rule No. 7--Avoid low, fantastic and acrobatic poses. If because you want to reduce or for any other reason you must be acrobatic go to a gymnasium. Castle House does not permit acrobatic stunts on its dancing floor. Do not clasp your partner in a death grip. The gentleman should rest his hand lightly against the lady's back, touching her with the finger tips only, or, if preferred, with the inside of the wrist, and the back of the thumb. His left hand and forearm should be held up in the air parallel with his body, with the hand extended, holding the lady's hand lightly on his palm and between the thumb and finger. If you can do all this, and can remember that you are at a social gathering and not in a gymnasium and if you don't attempt the ugly and obsolete turkey trot, bunny hug and grizzly bear, you can trip the light fantastic too and be perfect gentlemen and ladies.

BOTH'S IRON GRIP HAS BROKEN STRIKE

Cape Town, Union of South Africa, Jan. 16.--Despatches from all parts of the Union report that the strikers everywhere are returning to work and that the victory has been won by the Government in the struggle with the Federation of Trades arising out of the strike of railroad employees against the re-employment policy of the companies. The iron grip of the Premier, General Louis Botha, was still in evidence this morning at Johannesburg, where sixty-two members of the Typographical union were arrested while meeting. The charges against them was contravention of the provisions of martial law. The men had just passed a resolution to resume work. At the Salt River railroad work shops, just outside Cape Town, all the men have returned, their leaders having declared the strike ended.

Simultaneously with the short work made of the defiant Trades Federation leaders at Johannesburg, the entire executive force of the railway and harbor employees' societies of Cape Town and Pretoria were placed under arrest and practically every important strike leader throughout the Union of South Africa is in the hands of the police, while from every direction come signs of weakening on the part of the men. A great many men have returned to work, and the railway authorities are increasing the services. They express themselves as confident that they will have normal services running in all these provinces within the next thirty-six hours.

A Johannesburg despatch says the Government has discovered documentary evidence of a plot for a revolutionary movement in April, to set up a South African labor republic. The labor party here was disunited at the news of the arrest of the Johannesburg leaders, and there has been a rush of men to resume work. The Trades Federation held a meeting and although no decision was announced it is understood that the idea of calling a general strike in Cape Colony has been abandoned. At present the general strike order has reference only to the Orange Free state and the Transvaal. A prominent labor member of Parliament admitted that labor and received a crushing blow. The early collapse of the miners' strike is expected. Hundreds of striking miners have been arrested at Pretoria and similar measures will be taken elsewhere, if found necessary. "The railway men are streaming back to work at many places."

ST. JOHN WOULD RETALIATE
Urges Action by Canadian Government Against the United States Because of Potato Embargo.

St. John, N. B., Jan. 16.--A retaliatory embargo against the United States for its attitude upon the importation of Canadian potatoes is urged upon the Canadian Government by the St. John board of trade in a resolution adopted by the council of the organization. The resolution reads: "Whereas, the Government of the United States has unjustly placed an embargo upon the importation of Canadian potatoes. Resolved, That the Canadian Government be requested to institute an embargo upon the importation of American potatoes to protect the Canadian grower, and that the Canadian Government be further urged to remove this embargo when the United States Government do justice to the Canadian farmers."

Municipal Boosting.

This is the day of city booming and boosting, and not too much can be done in that line, provided the work is judiciously done. There is room for hard work and the expenditure of money that will bring large returns if the effort and the money are expended in the right directions.

Most cities now have their boards of trade, chambers of commerce or merchants' associations, all bending their efforts to building up their communities and improving the business conditions. Much excellent work has been done and is being done by these organizations, which are entitled to the support of all good citizens, and everything indicates that activity along these lines will be even greater in the future than in the past.

But there is one important fact for all to remember, and this is that comparatively little will be gained through laboring with the outside public while matters at home are not looked after as they should be. That "new industry" which all the cities are looking for will want to know something about the tax rate, the water supply, the schools and other conditions in any community before deciding where to locate. If the government and conditions of a town generally will not bear the closest scrutiny there will be little use in attempting to get outsiders to come in and help out. The industry to be brought in must have some inducement for coming, other than the mere fact that its coming will be a benefit to the town. Highly desirable as industrial establishments are, we must remember that they are not philanthropic in character and that their selections of locations are made purely with an eye to business.

For these reasons cities and towns on the lookout for new industries need to be extremely careful with reference to home conditions. It is well to advertise, to set forth the advantages and attractions of a community in every possible way, but at all times there should be a certainty that conditions are such that when a new industry comes to investigate it will find something worth coming for, and not the mere fact that the town is in need of building up and has little to offer in return.

The railroads east of Chicago and north of the Ohio river are to be permitted to increase their freight rates, though not quite so much as they would like to. However, the increase allowed will enable the public to help pay the increased wage scales which the roads were obliged to assume some time ago. All such increases find their way home to the "ultimate consumer."

The Massachusetts state tax is to take another big jump this year. In spite of all talk of economy more money is demanded in many directions and the tax payers must foot the bills. And still they will keep on shouting about the cost of living and attempting to remedy the situation by voting "against" somebody when election comes.

A woman doesn't care what she is wearing when the ice man walks into the kitchen. But if a strange mutt who is peddling soap happens to ring the door bell she has to go upstairs and fight her way into her near-silk kimono and smooth her hair before she would think of letting him see her, says an observing writer.

Through the efforts of Lieutenant Governor Barry of Massachusetts the meetings of the governor's council will hereafter be open to the public. This may be a good thing, especially when pardon for murderers is under consideration.

It is said that more than half of the people of Connecticut have money in the savings banks. But that state has always been noted for its thrift since it became famous for the manufacture of wooden nutmegs.

It is easy to understand why those who propose culling prairie dogs dodge behind the contention that the proposition is advanced for the purpose of ridding the west of the troublesome rodents.

It is said that the campaign for national prohibition will mean the death of the prohibition party. But to all practical intents and purposes that took place a long time ago.

It is hoped that with reference to civil service President Wilson is not "in favor of the law, but 'agin' its enforcement."

How long before the story of beef importations will be told by falling prices?

The governors of many states are said to favor the plan of a "go-to-church" Sunday. Now will they set the example?

It looks as if the New Haven railroad and the government were going to be able to "patch it up."

A mild winter does not necessarily lack backbone.

Japanese Eruption Costs 80,000 Lives; Typical Volcano Scene.

It is believed that 80,000 persons lost their lives in the eruption of the Japanese volcano of Sakurajima. The city of Kagoshima, with 41,000 inhabitants, was totally destroyed, and many islands suffered. The illustration shows a typical volcanic eruption in Japan.

MUCH PRAISE FOR GALLINGER

Power and Influence Felt at Washington; Thirty Years of Excellent Service.

John Lawrence, a Washington, D. C., correspondent has the following to say of New Hampshire's senior senator, Jacob H. Gallinger:

Seldom do Washingtonians get together in praise or discussion over their ally in the government but they extol Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire, whom they look upon as one of the city's truest friends. He has been in congress 30 years and has served long as chairman of the District of Columbia committee of the senate.

As such he came to be a sort of mayor of Washington and so efficient did he prove that Washington watched every movement of his, regretting his going away even for a vacation and welcoming his return, in exceptional fashion, the newspapers meeting him at once and noting his return to their best columns and reporting interviews with him, as of the utmost interest; certainly they were that to Washington. The senator added out the programme for the year and Washington always knew it was a liberal one and spelled progress for the city.

There have been other special tributes in congress of Washington men like the late Senator McMillan of Michigan, to whose memory a beautiful fountain is about to be dedicated. It would not be at all surprising, it is after Senator Gallinger is gone to his fathers, some memorial will be set.

A TRUE STORY.

A certain razor has built up a large sale and a national reputation through newspaper advertising. It has been sold at a fixed price and the public has come to regard it as well worth the price asked.

Following last Spring's decision of the Supreme Court some dealers began cutting the price of this particular article, using it as an advertisement.

Now, curiously enough, not a few of the price-cutting stores found they sold fewer of these razors at a cut price than before.

On the other hand, stores that maintained the price found an increased demand.

"People want to know what is wrong with it when we offer this article at a cut price," one storekeeper told the writer.

It was true that the splendid newspaper advertising coupled with the fact that it was a good article had practically standardized the price in the minds of the public.

There is food for thought in this situation for other manufacturers.

up in Washington by a loving city to honor him for his services in behalf of the capital, making it more beautiful and livable.

The services of Senator Gallinger, and the love of the man for the capital are being brought into contrast through the fact that the affairs of the city, in so far as its administration is concerned in the House of Representatives are in the hands of men who are his avowed enemies and hate him, especially the chairman of the House District Committee, Ben Johnson of Kentucky. Affiliated with him on the committee is Congressman Reed of New Hampshire, from whom a great deal has expected because he had been an able and enterprising mayor of Manchester, N. H., but Johnson seems to have corrupted all the Democrats on the committee to be reactionaries of the worst type. The Democrats seem to be of the opinion that everybody in Washington, other than their dear selves are scamps of the worst dye.

Yet, he it is said, that in the last congress Johnson, even then chairman of the committee, refused to have his committee meet for months lest it report a new excise law for the district.

Senator Gallinger is not now chairman of the senate district of Columbia committee, and so he is not as powerful and influential as he used to be when the senate was Republican, but he can act as an obstruction to the devastating hands of the Democrats, and he can help materially to enlighten the senate Democrats who are not such irreconcilable reactionaries and enemies of the district as those in the House are, who in an evanescent moment have been set up to rule over the district.

KITTERY POINT

What Is Happening in the Harbor Town.

The K. F. G. Fancy Work Club was pleasantly entertained on Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Granville O. Berry. Ice cutting is now on at full blast at Clarkson's pond. J. Chester Cutts is filling his ice house on the spot and many teams are transporting the crystal blocks to Frisbee Brothers ice house on their wharf, where it is dispensed to yacht and fishing vessels.

Miss Bernice Phillips pleasantly entertained the R. G. Jockey Work Club on Friday evening.

Among those who have with more or less exertion, succeeded in cutting their motor boats clear to the heavy field of ice in Chamney Creek, and removing them out of the danger zone, are Arthur Hutchins, Fred Dorr, John Amey, Wallace Hutchins, Fred Blake, Ralph Seawards, Herbert Witham, L. T. Bridges and Dennis Lathrop.

The five-masted schooner Dorothy Palmer at this port from Norfolk, Va., reports a terrible experience in the recent memorable gale. Six men were washed off by a monster sea which bounded the vessel, two of them nearly losing their lives. The vessel was later luck enough to make shelter in Provincetown Harbor, but grave fears are felt for the safety of the Prescott Palmer also bound to Portsmouth and in company with the Dorothy.

Services at the Baptist church on Sunday, January 18: Sermon at 2 p. m. by the pastor, Rev. R. W. Church. Subject, "Entering in through the gates into the city." Sunday evening, "Four viewpoints of character, Force, Policy, Sentiment, Love to God."

Captain and Mrs. Henry Marden have returned from a visit to their son in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Sawyer entertained relatives from North Kittery on Thursday.

The five-masted schooner Grace A. Martin, which foundered in the recent gale while bound from Norfolk, Va., to Portland, brought a load of coal to the navy yard last year, and was then mentioned as being the largest sailing vessel ever to visit Portsmouth. She was 2624 net tonnage, and was built at Bath in 1894.

Mrs. Annie Matthews has returned to her home in Somersworth, N. H., after being called here by the illness and death of her brother, Frank T. Clarkson.

The Junior Christian Endeavor society will meet at the First Christian church at 11.30 a. m. on Sunday.

Victor Sawyer is enjoying a vacation from his duties at the navy yard.

Mrs. Josephine Manson of Boston is visiting friends in town.

WORTH KNOWING.

On December 4, 1783, Washington's army of 20,000 men was encamped at Red Bank, Pa., and fled across the Hudson to New Jersey, thence proceeding to Philadelphia. There he landed to the proper officers a statement of the money he had spent out of his own pocket after he took command of the army more than eight years before in Cambridge. The amount was $64,315. For his services during that time he refused to receive any pay. When he reached Annapolis, where Congress was sitting, he resigned as Commander in Chief of the army, and proceeded to Mt. Vernon, where he had been but once during the eight years and a half.

CURRENT OPINION

Challenging of Motives and Practices of All Corporate Interests Should Cease.

It is certain that the results of the evolution going on in this country have potentialities for good or for evil of immeasurable importance. Is it true, can it be true, that we are living at a time when plain, straightforward facts and merit are to be disregarded, when right and honor go at a discount and prejudice and misrepresentation command a premium? On all sides, almost every day, we see new committees of inquiry and investigation.

Can proper conclusions be reached by any body of men forced to approach their subject with minds already prejudiced by misinformation and to continue its consideration under daily additions of misstatements?

It will be a happy day for this country when we can free ourselves from such prejudice and suspicion, from such challenging of motives and practices of all corporate interests. I believe that the day is not far distant when we shall recur to the order, "Honor to him to whom honor is due."

PORTSMOUTH THEATRE PROGRAMME

For Friday and Saturday The Wedding Gown—Biograph Drama, (one reel and one half.)

This is the story of a country girl who is engaged to a farmer. She has the taste of a broader life and comes near marrying a city chap. Gertrude Robinson is featured.

The Girl at the Lunch Counter—Vita-graph Comedy.

Cutey is in love with the girl. He goes to propose, and finds she is—John Bunney, Lillian Walker, Flora Finch, Willie Van and Kate Price make this a very funny picture.

ACT—Temple & Huff—Man and woman. Eccentric characters, comedy singing and talking. They burlesque grand opera for a finish.

Through Flaming Paths—Lubin Drama.

A very thrilling picture. While the forest is raging with fire, no man will make a desperate attempt to save the settlers, so she determines to do so.

ACT—Cunningham & Conery—Two Men. Singing, talking, and dancing in hard shoes. One of the comedians does some flips and falls.

The Club Cure—Biograph Comedy. He spends every night at the club. A neighbor suggests an idea to keep him home.

The Suicide Pact—Biograph Comedy on the same reel.

Pa said millionaire Hicks was just his ideal son-in-law, but May huggled Harold all the harder. So Pa locked her up.

The Upward Way—Edison Drama. It is beyond human belief however, that a man would insist on the arrest of another for the theft of a loaf of bread taken to save the life of a starving mother and that he should be taken to jail from the side of the dead body and then sent to prison.

Matinee 2.15. Evening 7.00. Saturday Evening 6.45.

NORTHLAND IS PICKED UP

Missing Schooner Is Being Towed to Rockland by Revenue Cutter.

Portland, Me., Jan. 16.—The revenue cutter Woodbury picked up the four-master schooner Northland three miles south of Matineus Light today. Lieut. Ridgely, commander of the cutter, said the schooner's fore and mizzen sails were blown away and she was badly leaking. Her rigging was considerably damaged and her crew badly frostbitten. The Woodbury is towing her to Rockland.

The captain of the Northland reported to Lieut. Ridgely that he was in company with a five-masted schooner Tuesday morning but did not learn her name. He says that he suddenly lost sight of her and believes she must have foundered.

The Woodbury was returning from the Bay of Fundy, where she had gone to the assistance of the steamer Colquhoun.

Shipping men here believe that the schooner seen by the Northland was the Grace Martin.

E. W. Clark of the J. S. Winslow Co., said there was a cause for alarm on account of the failure of the schooner Fuller Palmer to report. She was last heard from as having passed Highland Light on Monday.

A FOUR OR A SIX.

During the past seven years, Studebaker has built and marketed more than 100,000 four-cylinder automobiles. These cars represent a manufacturing experience that is priceless—an experience which enables us to offer you for $1050 the Studebaker Four, in which we have incorporated all of our expert knowledge of designing and manufacturing.

Many of the details of the Studebaker Four would have been impossible without the intimate knowledge which has come through the performance of earlier models, in the hands of their owners. It has been aptly termed "The Last Word in Fours."

In the Studebaker Four we have developed the four-cylinder principle to its logical limit. Wonderfully powerful in proportion to its weight, the Studebaker Four is able to handle its five-passenger load with ease. Its ability to secure the greatest possible efficiency from each gallon of gasoline is phenomenal. In beauty, finish, design and materials it is excelled by no car on the market. At $1050, P. O. B. Detroit, it comes to you fully equipped with an automatic electrical starting, lighting and ignition device.

If you want a larger, more powerful car—if you can afford to pay more for a car—buy a Studebaker Six. Arthur W. Horton, Agt. he it

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Brewster Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brunt Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teaspoon full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

The superintendent of the First Congregational church Sunday school desires that all scholars be in their seats at 12:15 o'clock on Sunday, Jan. 18.

District Deputy Great Sachem Samuel P. Kennedy of Dover will this evening raise the chiefs of the local Tribe of Red Men to their respective stumps.

WILL RACE MONDAY.

Local Horsemen to Meet on Lafayette Road Speedway.

A race for a purse of $50 will take place on Monday afternoon on the Lafayette road speedway. The horses matched are those of H. H. Burton, Arthur E. Freeman and Otto Berry. The winner must take the heat three out of five in quarter mile heats.

The road in this section is in fine shape and a good race is expected. The race was expected to take place on the North Pond but the drivers found it dangerous getting from the shore onto the ice.

The damage done in this city and vicinity by the cold weather of the first of the week, will be thousands of dollars.

KEEPING THE BOYS STRAIGHT.

Father Recognized Force of Appeal to Manliness, and It Has Worked Well.

Several gray-haired business men were recently chatting over their cigars.

"This talk about mother and the boys is all very well," said one. "But father comes in strong, too. My father devoted one minute a day to keep us straight than all the little mother's admonitions. She was a sweet, unworldly little person and we adored her and revered her teachings. However, she never could think of us as anything but her little boys, and as we grew taller and more worldly we acquired the usual boyish sense of exalted importance and might have been led to secretly patronize her strict goodness as a little old-fashioned, except for father.

"Father saw the force of appealing to us as men to man, long before there was much man in us, I guess. Every night at dinner, I can see him yet, after the blessing, with his carving knife and fork poised over the roast, pause and look us straight in the eyes.

"Well, boys, how goes the world?" "And you better believe the thought of that moment stood us often during the day. We had to keep pretty straight to be able to return that clear look and answer: "O. K., Dad."

Charlotte Bronte and M. Heger.

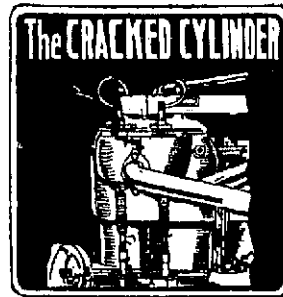

The discovery of four new Bronte letters, reopening the question of Charlotte's feelings for her Belgian schoolmaster, makes it interesting to note that her first impressions of M. Heger were far from favorable. Mrs. Gaskell in her "Life of Charlotte Bronte" quotes the letter written after her arrival in Brussels: "He is professor of rhetoric, a man of power as to mind, but very choleric and irritable in temperament. A little black being, with a face that varies in expression. Sometimes he borrows the lineaments of an infernal demon, sometimes those of a delicious hyena; occasionally, but very seldom, he discards these perilous attractions and assumes an air not above one hundred degrees removed from mild and gentleman-like."

A SCHOONER DUE HERE FEARED LOST

The Fuller Palmer, One of Fleet of Three That Are Missing After Storm.

The gravest fears are felt for the safety of the five-masted schooner, Fuller Palmer, and the other two vessels of the fleet, the four-masted Northland, which were caught off the coast in the recent northwesterly gale, and have not since been heard from.

Every other vessel in the big fleet of coasters which rounded the Cape on Monday has been accounted for, and the entire absence of news of the three vessels mentioned is causing much uneasiness among the owners and the families of the men comprising the crews.

There were at least 37 men on the three vessels, and their relatives intend to appeal to the Government to send cutters on a search of them.

The Fuller Palmer, in command of Capt. O. W. Clark, of 10 Cotton street, Dorchester, left Norfolk, Jan. 1, laden with 400 tons of coal for Barrow, Mann & Co. of Boston. The Prescott Palmer, commanded by Capt. George A. Carls, of Southway Harbor, was on her way from Norfolk to Portsmouth, with 200 tons of coal, and the Northland, commanded by Capt. Saunders of Rockland, left Norfolk Jan. 4 for Seaport.

All three vessels passed by High land Light Monday, last, before the gale increased in fury. Instead of running back to a lee under Charlemagne with the majority of the vessels, they continued on their way.

The Grace A. Martin, which rounded off Matthews Wharf, was in company with them and Capt. H. H. Wallace of the Jacksons Marine, who was hidden here yesterday with the remainder of the crew, said today that he feared the three vessels might have met a similar fate.

able to work their way back to the coast. It is probable that before night orders will be issued to the revenue cutters in this district to make a thorough search for the missing vessels.

PRESIDENT TO SEND MESSAGE ON TRUSTS

Washington, Jan. 16.—President Wilson announced with the Cabinet today the completed draft of the message he will deliver next week to Congress on the trust question. The President also spent an hour with Representative Stanley, chairman of the committee which investigated the United States Steel Corporation.

Mr. Stanley said afterward that he concurred in every line of the message and added that what particularly pleased him was that the President outlined the general principles to be dealt with, leaving the details and specific measures to be worked out by Congress.

While after the Sherman law in no way specific additions in one sense, or another are contemplated with the purpose to eliminate uncertainty of interpretation.

Those who knew what the President has in mind with reference to an interstate trade commission said today that one of its chief merits would be its power of publicity.

OHIO ORDERED TO MEXICO

Washington, Jan. 16.—The battleship Ohio, being designated for service, of Delaware breakwater, was ordered today to leave Philadelphia Jan. 21 for Mexico to relieve the Kansas, which will proceed to Guaymas for winter maneuvers with the Atlantic fleet. The change will leave seven American battleships and half a dozen smaller craft in the Gulf of Mexico.

The cruiser New Orleans is en route from San Francisco to Escondido, Lower California, where Americans have been alarmed by threats of forced loans to pay Mexican soldiers.

The cruiser Pittsburgh, which has been observing conditions at San Blas on the Pacific Coast, started back to Manzanillo today.

REPAIRING FURS

There is still sufficient cold weather before us to make it necessary that furs, fur coats and fur costumes should be overhauled and looked to carefully, for the more delicate pieces have an awkward way of wearing out suddenly before the winter season is half through without giving us reasonable warning.

More especially is this the case with the coats that are made of the skins of such animals as the seal, which are liable to cause a giving away of the skins themselves, where they are joined together, and once this slight tearing apart starts it must be stopped at once or the damage will rapidly become more obvious.

It is not easy always to repair a coat (though coats may be sewed to body and underlaid). But a suit and neckpiece are easily repaired these days by adding seam was sufficient, made double of chiffon, velvet or soft satin.

ARRESTED FOR STEALING SHOES

Nashua, Jan. 17.—Inspector T. F. Mulvaney of the police department yesterday afternoon arrested Oscar Senecal, Alfred Richie, and Thomas F. Donoh, ranging in age from 17 to 22, well known young men around the city on the charge of larceny of shoes from the Boston & Maine railroad.

They are at the station tonight and it is stated by the police that they admit the robbery. They will be arraigned in court tomorrow morning.

The break was made about a week ago and was one of a large number which have occurred in the yards of the railroad. The young men of shoes, of which three pairs have been recovered.

BRITISH SUBMARINE SINKS WITH CREW OF TWELVE MEN

Plymouth Eng., Jan. 16.—The British submarine "A. 7," foundered off here today and has not yet been raised.

The submarine was engaged in exercises in the Sound with a number of her sister vessels, and she failed to come to the surface with the other boats when the maneuvers were brought to an end.

The "A. 7" is one of a class of nine boats numbered "A. 5" to "A. 13." She was built in 1904 and measured 150 feet in length. Her submerged displacement was 294 tons. Her engines developed an indicated horsepower of 600, giving her a surface speed of 16 knots and a submerged speed of nine knots.

Contained 12 Officers and Men.

The "A. 7" lies at the bottom of Chiswick Bay, on the western shore of Plymouth Sound, and has been so long below that naval experts fear her crew of 12 officers and men will not be raised alive.

Two other vessels of exactly the same type have met with disaster, the A. 5 at Queenstown in 1905, with a loss of four lives, and the A. 8 at Plymouth in 1906, with a death list of 15.

The British Navy has also lost a number of other submarines within recent years. The A. 1 was wrecked in 1901, when 12 men were drowned. No. 1 was lost in 1905, but all were saved. The C. 8 sank in 1907, when four were drowned; the C. 11 in 1909, when 13 were drowned; the A. 3 in 1912, with the loss of 11 lives, and the R. 2 in the same year, with a death list of 15.

The submarine was executing diving maneuvers with the rest of the flotilla stationed here, consisting of the A. 7, A. 8 and A. 9. When the other boats rose to the surface the absence of the A. 7 was noticed. Signals were at once made to Plymouth and Devonport, and these brought the depot ship Onyx and several salvage steamships to the scene at full speed.

All Were Alive at 5 p. m.

The salvage vessels made speedy efforts to grapple the submarine, whose approximate position was indicated by buoys rising to the surface. These, however, were thought to show that water had penetrated the submarine's hull. It is understood that several additional men were undergoing instruction, and it is believed that the total of those on board reached 17.

At 5 this afternoon all the crew were still alive. The parent ship Onyx succeeded in getting into communication with them at that hour.

THE CARE OF THE INSANE

Frank B. Sanborn Writes Interestingly About the Work Being Done by Dr. Edward S. Cowles.

Frank B. Sanborn, formerly Inspector of the Massachusetts State Insane Asylum, writes in the "Springfield Republican" of Dr. Edward S. Cowles, of Portsmouth, N. H., as follows:

"But there is a measure, apart from food and attendance, which should now claim the attention of those who care for the 17,000 insane of Massachusetts and 13,000 of the United States. A new discovery, or rather the certification of an ancient practice as founded on the laws of physiology, has been made; by which the disturbed mind itself may be made to restore its own balance, with the aid of gifted physician. I have seen this method in operation unconsciously in many instances, for many years, but of late its practice has become rational and psychological, and it has gained the special name of 'psychotherapy.' To illustrate what it is, I will go outside of our state and introduce a New Hampshire specialist, instructing a small college in that small state. On Thursday of last week, while the Massachusetts board of insanity were investigating, in the presence of several sensational reporters, the sensational charges of a sensational Boston physician against the management of our oldest state hospital, at Worcester, the faculty and students of the New Hampshire college at Durham, training and being trained for the most practical vocations in the world, were listening to a practical discourse on the treatment of insanity and other maladies, by one of the most scientific and successful practitioners in that state. It was Dr. E. S. Cowles of Portsmouth, invited by President Fairchild to speak on 'specialty, the care of nervous and mental diseases, now so common in New England. What he said is briefly reported in one of the county dailies and was of a nature to interest many more than the few hundred who heard it at the agricultural college, and who were deeply interested."

"He pointed out that the new method of turning the mind round to help the body, instead of making the ailing body bear the chief burden of healing the mind and nerves, is what distinguishes 'psychotherapy' (that 'long word' from the old method in such cases; and that it is not 'hypnotism,' though it may sometimes rank as 'suggestion.' It is in fact the very reverse of hypnotism. Suggestion is nervous malady, however, and the searching inquiry that precedes the diagnosis, aim to unfetter the will for the person's own benefit and recovery. To diagnose the case, not alone physical symptoms are observed, but the process called 'analysis' is followed in order to learn what the apprehensions and reasonings of the mind are. These are often the result of mental action, even as they are often the effect of bodily changes. Dr. Cowles told his audience, as he tells his patients, that to find the cause, whether physical or mental, and to remove it, is the whole of psychotherapy."

"For instance, he stated that a great many of the common disorders of the stomach and intestines come from a disturbance of the nervous system, and therefore cannot be permanently cured by treatment addressed to the stomach and bowels. The cause must be looked for and found in the nervous system, and when removed, relief comes to the sufferer almost instantly; and this is not merely a temporary thing, but it seems to grow permanently stronger and more healthy. Thousands of persons in the United States today," said he, "suffering, as they are, from what they think disorders of the stomach, wholly physical, from heart disturbance and nervous prostration, can be permanently cured by psychotherapy in a very short time."

"It is the same with certain forms of insanity, particularly in that terror of the specialist for 10 years back, 'dementia praecox.' This disease, said the doctor, is a form of insanity developing in children and young persons between 10 and 30; it is hardly a physical disorder, but resides in the mind of the 'shut-in personality' of boy or girl; if it gets established, it is rarely cured. But with a proper system of school inspection of the sanitary condition of pupils, it could be early detected, given prompt treatment, and prevented from running on until the insane asylum and hopeless insanity follow. He estimates that more than three-fourths of all such cases can thus be saved—a considerable well worth attending to."

"The success of Dr. Cowles in his years of practice by this method, both in New Hampshire and Vermont, makes his testimony very valuable. He has achieved recovery both with children, youths, and adults. In cases where the old method had long failed to produce much alleviation. His best known patient is Miss Farmer; her scores of others, less in the public eye, and many modifications of nervous and mental disease have been equally relieved. Sometimes, of course, his method fails; sometimes relief, and not final recovery takes place. But the number of his cures, and the excellent and practical way in which he explains his method, make him one of the most interesting physicians now practicing in New England; and it would be advisable for all high schools and medical colleges in New England to hear him lecture and test his methods. A few other specialists have the same, and they are working a change in the care of the insane."

ALL TRAINS WILL BE RUNNING NEXT WEEK

Boston, Jan. 16.—While officials of the Boston and Maine are considering plans to secure federal permission to drive more piles as a firmer foundation for the fireproof structure to replace tower A in the North station yard, it is said that 75 per cent of the normal train service is in operation now and that the full schedule will be restored by Wednesday, if not by Monday. The increase in operation depends largely on the readiness with which the hand system of signalling and switching can be perfected to replace the electric system which was controlled by tower A. No through trains are affected.

CLAIMS TITANIC UNSEAWORTHY WHEN SHE LEFT ENGLAND

London, Jan. 15.—The plea that the Titanic was unseaworthy when she left England in April, 1912, on her disastrous maiden trip to the United States, which cost the lives of over 1000 persons, is to be advanced in a suit for damages brought against the White Star Line by Thomas Whiteley, one of the surviving stewards. The plaintiff sustained a fracture of the right leg in the wreck.

Whiteley's counsel, Allen Clement Edwards, M. P., will also argue on behalf of his client that there was negligence in the steering of the ill-fated vessel.

The hearing has been provisionally fixed for March 1.

This will be the first time that a suggestion in regard to the unseaworthiness of the Titanic has been raised in the courts. Whiteley, in an interview given while he was lying in a New York hospital after the wreck, declared that the officers of the Titanic had disregarded the warnings of the lookout that icebergs were in the vicinity.

THE ARMY AND NAVY

Washington, Jan. 16.—Adjuncts general of the National Guard of thirty states concluded their convention here last night by issuing a statement authorized by unanimous resolution approving the proposed militia pay bill on which they agreed with Secretary Garrison. "The final step has been taken for the first time in the history of the country," said the statement, "by which the National Guard, which now numbers 120,000 officers and men, is made immediately available in time of war for the service of the Government within or without the territory of the United States. It means that the National Guard organizations of all the states, from the moment of passage of this law, are instantly available without muster-in or physical examination or any other step except the call of the President. The law further provides such a degree of Federal control over the training and instruction of the National Guard as shall make it genuinely efficient for war service. A provision for allowances to officers and men to reimburse them for expense and compensate them for time devoted to training in time of peace is contained in the bill. There is also adequate provision for all necessary arms, uniforms and equipment and for detail of officers and men of the regular army."

It is expected that the militia bill will go to Congress as an Administration measure after it has been submitted to the President for his approval.

To Reorganize Cuban Army.

A bill for the reorganization of the Cuban army was introduced into Congress yesterday by the leader of the Conservative party. By its provisions the rural guard is to be joined to the permanent army, the field artillery is to be suppressed, the rapid-fire gun sections are to be increased and six new cavalry regiments created. The measure proposes to suppress the commander-in-chief of the army and the major generals and to place the entire force under the command of the president of the republic and the secretary of the interior, aided by a general staff. The proposals have created wide comment among army men and civilians.

Contract for Boston Yard.

Individual efforts of the Massachusetts congressmen to secure for the Charlestown navy yard the contract for building the navy supply ship will be supplemented by a concerted appeal to Secretary Daniels by both senators and all the members of the House from Massachusetts. Arrangements were made by Representative Roberts for the visit and the congressmen will be accompanied by E. C. Bolewski, chairman of the executive committee of the "Build-a-Ship-in-Honour" organization. Ways and means for convincing Secretary Daniels that Charlestown could build the ship were considered by Mr. Baldwin in conference with Senator Lodge, Senator Weeks and several members of the House and the plan for a descent on the navy department eventually was adopted. In the meantime, the board of experts in the department is studying the various bids and is expected to report to Secretary Daniels within a short time.

Craft for Naval Militia.

The assistance of Representative Roberts in a movement to obtain two torpedo boats for the Massachusetts Naval Militia was enlisted by adjutant General Pearson. An effort will be made to obtain them by the close of the winter. The Roberts, now used by the Naval Militia, is said to have proved its usefulness, while the Chicago, which also is assigned to Massachusetts, is too large for general use and is available for only one cruise each season. One of the new boats, it is planned, will be stationed at Boston and the other at Cape Cod.

Defends Naval Academy Tests.

Captain John H. Gibbons, U. S. N., superintendent of the Naval Academy, was questioned by members of the House committee on Naval Affairs yesterday concerning the standard of entrance requirement examinations at the academy. This matter has irritated several representatives, whose appointments to the academy have failed to pass the examinations, and has been much discussed in the House. Captain Gibbons said that the Navy department had submitted the examinations to many high school teachers with a request for their opinions on the fairness of the questions asked. The majority of these teachers replied they considered the examinations fair and not too rigid. Of course, he explained, it was necessary to maintain a high standard of efficiency in the academy after entrance and the training in mathematics had to be thorough on account of the importance of this branch in technical work in the navy. He said the men who passed highest in the examinations at the academy did not necessarily make the best officers. Captain Gibbons informed the committee that a reduction had been effected in the running expenses of the academy.

Flowers of Winter Blooming

There are flowers which the severest frost cannot harm and which never wither for the lack of water. These are made from the scraps of silk or velvet taken from the scrapbook. The corsage bouquet consisting of a single flower of unusual size, is fashioned by first cutting a paper pattern resembling the petals of the flower you wish to form, to use for a guide when cutting out the silk. For instance a group of scarlet satin is charming for a brooch of dark blue or black. Cut the number of petals required and run a thin hairline wire around the edge binding it with a narrow blue strip of satin. Join them together and center the flower with stamens, which can be caught where artificial flowers are sold.

The pond lily is another flower that is seen on many of the handsomest evening gowns. It is used as a corsage ornament or to catch up the skirt draperies and is made of white satin. Remnants of silk or satin can be bought at much reduced prices and the smallest pieces are utilized to fashion these flowers. The petals of pond lilies are pointed, and for each one cut two sections from the silk.

Chopped baked potatoes cooked in this way are delicious. Boil them with the jackets on until they are tender, but not nearly when they are cool peel them. Chop them rather fine and put them in a buttered baking dish. Cover them generously with small bits of butter, and pour over them enough milk just to show at the top. Season the milk before pouring it, with pepper and salt. Now comes the important part of this dish. Bake it slowly for at least half an hour and better for an hour and a half. Add more milk if necessary. When it is done the potatoes should be moist, firm and ready to melt in the mouth.

For potato pudding mash six large potatoes and add to them salt, pepper and a well beaten egg. Line the bottom and sides of a baking dish with an inch thick layer of the potatoes and add a cup of cold cooked meat, minced and seasoned with butter, pepper and salt. Put on a covering of mashed potato and bake thirty minutes.

Accidents will happen, but the best regulated families use Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for such emergencies. Two sizes, 25c and 50c, at all stores.

THAW'S BAIL DECISION IS AGAIN DELAYED

Concord, N. H., Jan. 16.—There will be no hearing on the question of bail for Harry Kendall Thaw until the final hearing upon questions involved in the habeas corpus and extradition proceedings which will put the matter by for several weeks if not months.

This was announced in a decision by Judge Aldrich filed with the clerk of the United States District Court for the district of New Hampshire today. The judge also granted extension of 20 days to counsel for Thaw in which to file their brief in the main case.

This brief, under the order of the court, was due early last week, but the leading counsel for the fugitive were unable to comply and took advantage of a suggestion of the judge that if their engagement in court in Cook County made it necessary a motion for an extension would be considered. Counsel thereupon asked for 30 days additional time, which has been refused, and an allowance of 20 days granted. As the state of New York, through Atty. Gen. Carmichael, has already filed the brief, it is probable that the hearing in the main case will also on the question of bail will take place early in February.

Judge Aldrich's decision says: "I do not think I ought to grant the petitioner's application for a 30 days extension of time in which to file briefs, but in view of the engagements of counsel set forth, and the importance of the questions involved in the main case, an extension of 20 days is granted. All questions under the motion for bail and all questions in respect to the report of the commission as to Thaw's present mental condition, are postponed until the final hearing on the questions involved in the habeas corpus and extradition proceedings."

HEADACHY, COSTIVE, BILIOUS—"CASCARETS"

Sick Headache, Bad Breath, Sour Stomach, Mean Liver and Bowels Are Clogged—Clear Up!

Get a ten-cent box.

Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, constipation, foul taste and foul breath—always trace them to clogged bowels; delayed fermenting food in the bowels, or sour, gassy stomach. Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When the poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep a ten-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months.

INCOME TAX WILL NOT BE A JOKE

Washington, Jan. 16.—Treasury officials have begun the task of picking out internal revenue agents and inspectors to collect the income tax. There are more than 10,000 applications on file for the 400 jobs. The commissioner of internal revenue makes the appointments, with the approval of Sec. McAdoo.

An anticipation of the appointment of these collectors, the Treasury has issued instructions to govern them. They indicate plainly that any one who takes the tax as a joke is likely to find his mistake. The instructions read in part as follows:

"The duties of officers of this class are to ascertain and report the names of persons who in their opinion are liable to the income tax, and who have failed to make return as required by law; to inquire into income tax returns where there is any suspicion that the returns made are erroneous; to examine the books and accounts of persons who have made returns, for the purpose of ascertaining and reporting whether the law has been complied with, when so ordered by the agent in charge of the division to which they are assigned; to inquire into the manner in which income tax employees are discharging their official duties and to report those who have failed in this respect."

"For the purpose of securing such information as they may desire, they may visit the office of any state, county or municipal officer, and for the general purpose of their employment, may confer with any collector or deputy collector of internal revenue within the territory in which they are authorized to operate."

"In the discharge of their official duties, officers of this class as well as officers of the Internal Revenue Bureau, in making inquiries and investigations, are to exercise sound discretion, treat all persons with due courtesy, and while acting firmly and courageously, to avoid all contention or controversy that would give just ground for complaint."

The Herald Hears

That the cold weather of last week put the North church clock out of commission, the first time in twenty years.

That the local horsemen are much served over the showing made by Miss McClure at Dover.

That it is up to Blue Mouse to put Portsmouth on the map in race circles, carrying riggers.

That the arguments between local horsemen and those of the surrounding towns is waxing warm.

That if half of the racing that is talked of should happen on the speedway every jockey would be kept busy.

That the navy yard workmen who were rescued by the crew of the government ferry number 1048 on Wednesday morning are still praising Coxswain Webb and his men.

That they will not forget the bravery of those men on the ferry for many a day.

That more than one builder believes that the building occupied as a central fire station on Court street, is at present dangerous.

That they say that the hose tower there is not safe and wonder how it escaped coming down during the blow of last Tuesday night.

That there promises to be a score of bids for removing the brown-tails. That the recent cold spell must have given the pests more than an ordinary chill.

That Court Rockingham Foresters of America of this city has met with a loss of three members by death in less than a week.

That the appeal made in this paper for articles needed at the Portsmouth Hospital was met with a very generous response on the part of the people.

That part of the machine guard at the navy yard are still hanging to the old regulation winter coat.

That the brewing companies are preparing for the output of the annual dock brewing.

That the work of auditing the passenger trains and the handling of the new issue of tickets keeps the Boston and Maine conductors pretty close to their job.

That County Attorney Guptill expects to get back to his old office next week.

That many cases on the civil docket are booked for a hearing at Exeter, this term of court beginning on Tuesday next.

That Mayor Yeaton is going to do all he can to keep the tax rate down and to lower it some, if possible.

That nobody will find any fault if he succeeds.

That workmen are doing a big hustle on the malt house of the Frank Jones Brewing Company which is being remodelled for a bottling plant.

HUERTA FACES NEW DANGER

Fear Treason by Federal General of Acapulco Garrison.

Washington, Jan. 16.—With financial troubles and aggressive rebel armies to cope with, the Huerta government in Mexico is menaced by a new danger, according to official Washington today from Mexico City. These reports said much alarm has been caused in government circles by suspicious circumstances growing out of the failure of their electoral campaign in the neighborhood of Acapulco.

The federal garrison at this important port under the command of General Mariscal is said to have shown itself strangely apathetic in the presence of a very active and alert enemy in the person of General Blanco, the Constitutionalist leader.

Repeated instructions from the war minister in the Mexican capital to General Mariscal to institute an active campaign against the Constitutionalist who have begun to appear in great numbers inland from Acapulco have failed to produce any effect and talk of a warm friendship existing between Mariscal and Blanco has led to an investigation of General Mariscal's loyalty.

The situation is regarded as of great importance in view of the fact that aside from Salina Cruz, Acapulco is now practically the only port on the Pacific, with reliable railroad connections with the capital in the possession of the federals. Its loss to them might make it impossible for the rifles and ammunition and other military supplies contracted for in Japan early last year to reach the federal arsenals when they are most needed.

OMITTED FROM THE LIST OF FLOWERS

In the list of floral tributes at the funeral of the late James Timmons, one piece, a large, handsome cross, from his brother workmen of the Frank Jones Brewing Company, was unintentionally omitted.
